

João Pedro Taborda

Vice-President, Government Affairs - Europe and Central Asia

João Pedro Taborda joined the company in 2005, coordinating institutional relations and following the regulatory environments in the region, particularly European Union's.

João is a Mechanical Engineer with a Master of Science Degree in Technology Management, under a joint program between Technical University of Lisbon and the University of Texas at Austin (2001), and has a Master in Diplomacy and International Relations by the Geneva School of Diplomacy (2018).

As part of his functions through these two decades, João coordinates the Business Diplomacy work in business opportunities related with Defense and state-owned airlines. Beyond interaction regulatory initiatives, his work with Governments covers projects related with investment and technological cooperation.

He's an invited Professor at ISEG - the Lisbon School of Economics & Management, and a Member of the Board of the World Portuguese Network.

April 2026